WCBD AMBASSADOR INFORMATION SHEET

Who?

To become a WCBD Ambassador, you must be enrolled and in good standing as a medical student at an LCME or AOA-accredited medical school. Students at accredited dental, pharmacy and veterinary schools are also welcome to apply. (Leave of Absence and Dual Degree-seeking students are also eligible.)

What?

Your role is to present to a class of middle or high school students on a topic of your choosing (or select one from the list below), and about the path to medical school. This health or education presentation should be about 20-30 minutes, and will likely be followed by questions from the students. In total, expect to spend about one hour at the volunteer site.

Each time you visit a school, WCBD will send you funding to cover gas and food. You'll share with us pictures and/or video from your visit to share on social media.

Potential Topics For Your Brief Presentation:

Puberty	Basic Nutrition & Exercise
College Applications	Cardiovascular Disease
Driving Under the Influence	Sickle Cell Disease
Social Media Professionalism	Diabetes
Gap Year Activities

Where?

You will serve as a WCBD Ambassador at Title I high schools or middle schools in the areas surrounding your medical school.

Finding the school and connecting you with the contact person is our job. Once you sign up as an Ambassador, we'll be in close contact with you and help you connect with the teachers and counselors at your assigned school(s).

Why?

WCBD Ambassadors are positive role models to young students who are interested in medicine. You represent their future aspirations, and can be a mentor, a guide, and a source of encouragement, simply by showing up and showing you care. You embody the spirit of visible activism that WCBD stands for: through education and mentorship, WCBD Community Ambassadors are the face of the movement.
